

In our first project deliverable we implemented the agile software process model, incremental development. We have hosted weekly team meetings and updated everyone in the team of the upcoming tasks and present progress made throughout the week. The flexibility of the process allows us to work independently and allows us to adapt to changing requirements.